The first vintage of this variety for this producer, this lovely white comes from a rare and renowned site in Green Valley. An austere nose of lemony green apple and honey follows through on the crisp, light-bodied palate. Floral in apple blossom, it reveals a touch of wet stone on the finish. —V.B.

Mary Cressler, Vindulge: 12 Wines for Spring Sipping ~ If I would have tasted this wine blind I would have thought it was from Oregon with its subtle freshly picked Bosc pear, green apple flavors, and balance. A little lemon and floral notes peek out. You can really sense this is from a cool climate with its great acidity and restrained fruit flavors and that mild pear holding you over from beginning to finish.

Alissa Fehr Leener, SHAMmelier.com: The Yard of the Rising Sun-Rubin Family of Wines ~ A few weeks ago, when the leaves were at peak, I opened the 2015 Ron Rubin Green Valley of Russian River Valley Pinot Blanc. I swirled and sniffed and quaffed and stared. If this wine were a tree, it would be the Rising Sun Redbud. Each sip deepened the connection. In the glass, the colors of the leaves, pale chartreuse, like the skin of Yellow Transparent apples. The notes of apple continue on the palate and with it, the citrus. Perhaps cardamom? There was a clean savory note I couldn't quite place until my husband brought me a clipping of lemon thyme from our garden. That was it, so clearly. I thoroughly enjoyed this wine.
